Putting the You in Values

Ask participants to choose the value they identify with most and gather by corner to discuss it.

Key steps

Put up a poster for each value in different corners of a meeting room.

Introduce these values during a workshop, and stimulate a little bit of discussion.

Ask participants to choose one value that they identify most with personally.

Ask them to go to the respective corner, and write down their interpretation of this value.

Present to others in the same corner, and ask a volunteer to summarise for other corners.
