Department Rally

A playful, compact way to meet colleagues across departments and get a real feel for what each one does.

Key steps

Flexibility and speed as an organization depend largely on the size and quality of the internal network, yet employees from different levels and departments rarely get to connect informally.

Have every department prepare an interactive quiz about its own function and pick two representatives; mix everyone else into teams that rotate through the stations collecting points, spicing it up with light sport contests. Announce and celebrate the winner at the end.
