Team Building

A single day built around past, future and present gives a team a shared story and a clear list of actions.

Key steps

Teambuilding works well facilitated by a colleague from another team, not just an external coach, and follows a natural arc: look at the past, imagine the future, then define what both mean for today.

Build a full-day agenda together — sharing local culture, a get-to-know café, a colour-game, inspiring each other, a team dream, visualizing the future — then close by listing the team's main actions and holding a truthful, honest session to prioritize what accelerates progress.
